Dear Eric,

This is very sad news. I do not know how to express it in words.
A friend, comrade and a fellow traveller. Her untimely demise is a great loss for all of us.
I totally agree with you that the best way to pay homage to her is to unitedly continue her struggle, her fight which is also the fight and struggle for millions of revolutionary activists around the world.
We express our heartfelt crisis and stand firmly by your side at this hour of immense grief.
Comradely,
Sushovan

Dear Eric,

I don't know how to express the shock when I read this sad news. She was too young to go. She passed away too young to leave us behind. I met her only once but I still remember how she was so sweet and attractive, at the same time I could see her deep belief in her struggle for justice. She was a great militant. It's a great loss for all of us. Eric, you have my deepest sympathy.

Dear Eric

It is with profound sadness that we, at VAK, received the news of Denise's demise!
WE all recall her warm and friendly smile and the cordiality she showed whenever she was in our office. In spite of a hectic schedule she always seemed so eager to meet the staff members of VAK. We also remember her on how she had worked so tirelessly during the World Social Forum in Goregaon

We can imagine how much you must miss both her companionship and fellowship.

On behalf of VAK staff please do accept our heartfelt condolences.

In found memories of Denise!

Yours sincerely,

VAK Staff

Dear Eric, please accept my deepest condolences on this sad and shocking news. I am grateful now for the opportunity I had in Kathmandu in January 2009 to meet Denise for the first, and alas, last time. Thanks to Sushovan's translation of your birthday tribute to Denise I learned something of her rich militant life and it reminds me of the political and human qualities of many who against the odds chose to join and remain in the ranks of the Fourth International.
